National Defense Transportation Association Announces 2008 Chapter and Individual Member Award Recipients and New “Innovative Logistics Award” Category

The voice of Defense Transportation

June 25, 2008

[Alexandria, VA – June 25, 2008] --- Individual NDTA members and NDTA Chapters who have demonstrated significant achievements in transportation and distribution will be recognized at the Association’s upcoming annual Forum & Expo scheduled for September 20 ~ 24, 2008 in Reno / Tahoe, Nevada. A new award category has been added to the list - the Innovative Logistics Award. This award specifically references the field of logistics in response to the wider concept of requirements that both industry and the Armed Services are taking.

Beside the traditional competencies, like seamless and visible movement of goods and management of storage facilities, today’s logistics providers are required to accomplish additional innovative services which allow the military forces to concentrate/focus on their core competencies. The Innovative Logistics Award seeks to recognize the best of these services provided in the last year.

“Many outstanding logisticians pledge themselves to support their country and their community,” explains Association president, LTG Kenneth Wykle, USA (Ret.). “The extended recognition gives NDTA the opportunity to spotlight additional extraordinary talents and efforts. We extend sincere congratulations to award recipients and our heartfelt thanks to all industry professionals for work” adds Wykle. Awardees are:
