

Course Title: US Bank Freight Payments Overview

Abstract:

All organizations strive to minimize costs and maximize performance, but as a government entity with accountability to taxpayers, these proficiencies are even more critical. In 1998, U.S. Bank pioneered freight payment to specifically accomplish the goals of Department of Defense (DoD). Since that time, we have helped government agencies operate more effectively and efficiently—enabling them to better serve the American people.

These entities rely on U.S. Bank Freight Payment to automate invoice processing, improve freight audit and payment and extend working capital benefits. In addition, carrier relationships are strengthened due to expedited payment and a collaborative, online solution that allows both parties to quickly resolve disputes and access powerful business intelligence.

This session will provide government shippers and commercial carriers information about U.S. Bank and its freight payment processes. Discussion will include an overview of recent enhancements to payment audibility, cybersecurity, trend analysis and reporting.
